

GLOBAL | CENTRAL BUSINESS DISTRICT PARKING RATE SURVEY

Parking Remains Expensive for the World's Global Cities

ROSS J. MOORE Chief Economist | USA

Whether to park for a day or to have access to parking anytime during the month, the world's top global cities remain amongst the most expensive places to park a car. No one region dominated in this year's survey with a good mix of North American, European, Asia Pacific and the Middle Eastern cities all represented in the top ten. The only region not represented was Latin America, however, demand drivers in that region continue to improve suggesting parking rates will almost certainly be climbing over the next few years.

Leading the list of the most expensive cities to park a car for a month is London; The City and West End submarkets ranked number one and number two in the world. Monthly parking rates in The City topped the global list at $933.00 USD per month (£643.00 GBP) followed by the West End at $874.00 USD (£602.00 GBP). Highlighting the bounce back in a number of financial centers, parking rates in The City increased 2.1% over the past 12 months while West End rates increased 2.0% (in local currency terms) from 2009 levels. In the third spot was Hong Kong at $745.00 USD per month ($5,800.00 HKD). Interestingly two Australian cities again made the top ten list; Sydney at number seven and Perth at number eight (Brisbane was not far out of the top ten coming in at 15). The highest daily parking costs were dominated by European cities with Oslo in the global number one spot at $54.52 (352.00 NOK) followed by London's City submarket, London West End, Amsterdam, Vienna, Athens, Stockholm and Copenhagen all making the top ten list. For this year's survey, the cheapest city to park is again Chennai, India at $0.96 for the day.

Methodology and Definitions

Colliers' third annual global parking rate survey now tracks 147 central business districts from all corners of the globe. The intent of this survey is to provide corporate real estate executives with the relative cost of parking, both on a daily and monthly basis. Readers will be able determine the relative cost to park a car both within countries and across borders. With data for 2008, 2009 and 2010, year-over-year pricing trends are now available and something that will be a feature of future reports. The survey methodology varies by country but in almost all cases Colliers' researchers have surveyed the majority of parking garages with their respective central business district (CBD).

Survey only includes covered or underground parking garages located in prime CBDs. Parking rate data was collected during the month of June 2010 and includes all relevant taxes. Sources include third parties, owners/operators and Colliers International.

Daily Parking – The customer is permitted to park for a full day and is not impacted by “early bird” restrictions.

Unreserved Parking – The customer is guaranteed a space upon entry.
